GLEN TOUT INJURED AT MARE ISLAND

Word has been received from Mare Island that Glen Tout, who enlisted in the marine service several weeks ago and was transferred to the proving grounds at Mare Island, was injured recently during gun practice.

The 8-inch gun practice was in progress and young Tout's ears had not become accustomed to the strain with the result that his hearing was seriously affected.

He was sent to the hospital where the surgeons ascertained that the ear drums were not broken, but had been injured by compression caused by the heavy detonations of the guns. The last report regarding the patient's condition was to the effect that he would soon be recovered and ready for duty again.

MAY BE CASE OF MISTAKEN IDENTITY

George Tarus was arrested by Patrolman Peterson yesterday on a warrant issued last week charging him with disturbing the peace. Tarus is accused of having accosted a colored woman in Electric alley last week and on being ordered away from her premises, it is claimed that he struck her a vicious blow on the head, rendering her unconscious.

Yesterday the woman noticed her assailant passing through the alley and secured his arrest. Tarus claims that it is a case of mistaken identity, and has summoned witnesses to prove an alibi. The woman will be in police court today with her witnesses.

JUDGE HOWELL GIVES DECISION

Tentative Victory for City in Suit Against Second-Hand Merchants.

Judge J. A. Howell of the District Court yesterday afternoon denied the motion of dismissal made by the defendants in the case of the City of Ogden against E. F. Weeber and George O. McBride, and the local second-hand dealers. The court's decision is considered a tentative victory for the city, which has brought suit against the second-hand merchants to force them into paying a license for conducting business in Ogden.

In the attempt of the defendants' counsel to have the case thrown out of court it was charged that the license ordinance which the city is attempting to enforce is invalid because it is discriminatory and gives to the city council and the mayor an unwarranted delegation of power. To prove that the ordinance is of a discriminating character the following was quoted from Section 512:

"If any person shall furnish such evidence as shall satisfy the Council Committee on License that he, by reason of misfortune or physical infirmities, merits exemption from the payment of any license herein required, the mayor may remit such license upon the recommendation of a majority of such Committee, provided, that no license to manufacture or sell intoxicating liquors shall be remitted."

The judge in rendering his decision concedes that the quoted passage from the ordinance is undoubtedly invalid but that this part of the ordinance is not tantamount to the whole and does not render the entire ordinance invalid.

The Utah Canning company filed an answer in the District Court yesterday afternoon to the complaint in the damage suit brought against the cannery by Freeman A. Murray, guardian of James F. Murray, who was injured in the defendant's factory on the seventeenth day of last January.

The complaint charges that young Murray at the time of his injury was employed in the cannery though not yet fifteen years of age, and that the injury sustained by the boy was of a severe nature that it necessitated the amputation of a portion of the right leg. The answer admits that such an accident occurred on the date quoted in the complaint but denies that the defendant company had any knowledge that the victim was under fifteen years of age when he was employed by the company. The answer charged that the accident was in no manner the fault of the company but was solely the negligence of the victim and to want of care and prudence on the part of his fellow servants.

BIG SHIPMENT OF PEACHES

"This season's crop of Elberta peaches is the best I have ever seen in this region," said Manager John Derrig of the Pioneer Fruit company last evening. "Weber county's shipment of peaches this year will be in the neighborhood of 200 carloads. Last year fifteen carloads were shipped to outside markets."

The opinion of Mr. Derrig regarding Weber county peaches is of more than ordinary interest inasmuch as he declares that not only is the quality far better than the average this year but that the crop is much heavier throughout the county. Utah peaches will soon be on the eastern markets as California shipments are about finished for this season.

The following letter has been received from the Pioneer Fruit company relative to Utah fruit and will prove interesting to fruit growers generally.

"We want to call attention to the peach growers of this district, that they have the best and most perfect Elberta peach that was ever raised in the state of Utah. We are advertising this fact amongst our agents all over the United States and getting them interested. It is up to the grower now to do his part and grade and put up the best pack he knows how, and it is the opportunity of his life to make a reputation for Utah fruit. With the price they are paying for Elbertas and the prospects of their going higher, it will be a great advertisement for the state. We are at present booking orders at $5 cents c. o. b., which we hope to raise to $1.00 inside of a week, as peaches are gradually getting scarcer and prices gradually going higher. Yours truly,

"THE PIONEER FRUIT COMPANY.

"John Derrig, Mgr."

denied admittance by those in charge and as there was a lack of proof that a felony had been committed, warrants enabling the officers to demand admittance could not be secured. Vernon came to Ogden August 8 and registered at the Reed under the name of Adams. A few days ago a young woman arrived and registered at the same hotel as "Miss Adams" and claimed to be a daughter of the man. The latter exchanged his room for a double suite which he occupied in company with the woman until his arrest yesterday.

PIONEER OF UTAH PASSES AWAY

Salt Lake, Aug. 15.—John McDonald, sr., a resident of Salt Lake City since 1849, and one of the best known men in the state died at 10:15 o'clock this morning at his summer home in the southeastern part of the city, from old age and general debility. At the time of his death Mr. McDonald was in his eighty-first year, having been born April 11, 1830. He died surrounded by his family and friends, having lived to a ripe old age and in the full consciousness of a life well spent in promoting the welfare of his family and friends, his city and state, his Church and of humanity in general.

In all his years John McDonald was an active spirit and did much in the way of assisting in the material progress of the city and state of his choice. He was a cabinet maker by trade, and in the early days he manufactured coffins and household furniture for many prominent residents of the city. On the advice of President Brigham Young, he entered into the manufacturing business and manufactured candy, crackers and arctic water, his goods finding a ready market. He became an extensive property owner in this city and was identified for many years with the business progress of the city. His son, James G. McDonald, took up the business and is now the head of perhaps the largest candy, cocoa and chocolate manufacturing of the west.

COURT AND ASSIGNEES; NEW DEAL AT PROVO.

Provo, Aug. 15.—In the fourth district court today the case of B. L. Meininger et al. vs. Thomas Broadbent et al. came on for hearing on the order to show cause why a receiver should not be appointed to take charge of the business of George Passey & Co., merchants of this city, of which Walter Wright and Thomas Broadbent were appointed assignees December 4 last. After hearing the evidence and arguments, Judge Booth appointed Edward L. Jones to succeed Wright and Broadbent. Mr. Jones' bonds were fixed at $25,000 and he will at once take charge of the business of the George Passey company, which has been organized and incorporated since the former assignment, and will administer it for the benefit of the creditors. The amount of liabilities at the time of the assignment, December last, was given as about $17,000. After the assignment Wright withdrew or failed to perform any of the duties of assignee, and Broadbent turned the property over to the assignees who then incorporated the George Passey company and as such took over the business and have been conducting it since. The plaintiffs in the proceeding allege that the creditors of George Passey & Co. have not been paid.

"BRAINS" OF POLICE FORCE QUITS JOB

Salt Lake, Aug. 15.—A feature that has a peculiar twist in the warfare between the office of the chief of police and the chief of detectives, is that Chief of Police Barlow has no jurisdiction in the matter of the resignation of Mr. Sheets. On July 14, 1908, the mayor approved an ordinance creating the office of chief of detectives—and Geo. A. Sheets was appointed by the mayor to the office. Under the created office Sheets and Barlow stand on the same footing—both appointees of the mayor, and it is to the mayor that Mr. Sheets should present his resignation from the office which he has held.

In one or two quarters of the police department it was whispered today that it would be no surprise to see George Sheets soon back in the harness as chief of police instead of simply chief detective.

Chief of Detectives George A. Sheets, the accredited "brains" of the police department, resigned from his office yesterday afternoon.

Chief of Police Barlow promptly presented it to the council at its meeting tonight.

"I have absolutely nothing to say. Mr. Sheets handed me his resignation and I took it. That's all there is to it."—Chief of Police S. M. Barlow.

"I resigned."—Former Chief of Detectives George A. Sheets.

With the startling surprise of the unexpected bursting of a bomb shell the rupture within the ranks of the "American" party, as confined within the police end of the city administration, came to the open climax yesterday afternoon, when in the passion of a heated interview Chief of Detectives George A. Sheets threatened his resignation at Chief of Police S. M. Barlow.

The resignation read:

Salt Lake City, Utah, S. M. Barlow, Chief of Police:

"I hereby respectfully hand you my resignation to take effect immediately. Aug. 14, 1910.

"GEORGE A. SHEETS,

"Chief of Detectives."

Aside from the act of judgement of the resignation and its acceptance, the affair is shrouded in the air of reticence. Former Chief Sheets admits only that he resigned; Chief of Police Barlow in candid manner admits to the extent of receiving the resignation and of his purpose of presenting it to the city council tonight, but is uncertain as to future action, saying that there is no hurry about considering a successor to the office of the chief of detectives. Detectives, officers and patrolmen are loath to talk, and prefer to be simply spectators in the "showdown" battle between the two chiefs, Sheets and Barlow.

The few who venture to express their opinion, however, say that the rupture was inevitable and the culmination of an internecine fight that began with the appointment of Chief Barlow to his position. The culmination, it is said, came through the attempt of the city administration as represented by Chief of Police Barlow to drive the scarlet women into the walled city controlled by Belle London, and to close the uptown houses. In this endeavor, Chief of Police Barlow balked, and when his plain clothes men were ordered to watch and patrol the uptown houses, it is said, he countermanded the orders of the chief of police.

Warm Debate.

The situation reached its climax yesterday afternoon, when, in the private office of the chief of police, Sheets and Barlow threw down their cards. Sheets was called into the private room of Chief Barlow shortly thereafter is not divulged, except that after an hour's argument in which the voices were raised to a pitch, Sheets went into his own office and a few minutes afterwards handed the chief of police his resignation.

When interviewed this morning Chief of Police Barlow was non-committal. In answer to a question as to what statement he wished to make, he said:

"There is nothing to say whatever. Mr. Sheets gave me his resignation, and I will present it to the council tonight. I don't care to discuss the matter, and have nothing to say about it."

When asked if he would appoint a successor to fill Mr. Sheet's position, Chief Barlow replied that part of it any thought, and, anyway, there's no hurry."

Mr. Sheets was equally non-committal, answering only, and with his smile, "I resigned. That's all there is to it."

The Career of Sheets. George Sheets, known after the McWhirter scandal as "Fast George," Sheets, has been identified with the police department for 20 years with but slight interruption. During the time he was not engaged in this department he has been connected with mercantile establishments as house detective. He does not deny that he has received many flattering offers to join the forces of large detective concerns in the east and with the railroad detective force in the west.

The name of Sheets has been coupled with the arrest of some of the worst criminals the west has known in the last 20 years. To the criminal fraternity he has been known as "Long George." By his enemies it is admitted that if he wants to get a criminal, he can get him, but his enemies and many others say that it is not always the case that he wants to get all of the criminals, and when many deals have been made between the detective and the criminal. Answering this his friends will point out that he has never been convicted of any unlawful deals with the underworld. Even at that, however, the evidence in the infamous McWhirter poker robbery is still fresh in the memory of many.

MAY REVEAL A PLOT OF GREAT MAGNITUDE

New York, Aug. 16.—United States customs inspectors recently made a seizure of opium in Hoboken, N. J., which, it is believed, may reveal a plot of great magnitude to swindle the government. Three arrests were made, and the men were charged with having brought in 12 pounds of opium bought in Shanghai.

Congress passed a bill in February which makes it a crime to have opium without proof of purchase from an authorized source of supply. The penalty is not more than $5,000 nor less than $50 fine, or not more than two years' imprisonment, or both.

Scratch a Match and Turn the Value

It is a true axiom that nothing is perfect until it is simple. All our men of middle life will remember the old powder-horn, cap-box and shot pouch; how cumbersome and slow it was when loading the old-fashioned shotgun. But now it is different, the cap, powder and shot are all in one shell.

How unpleasant it must have been for Martha Washington and all the ladies of her day to cook in the old fire place with its dutch oven and spit. If time could only be unrolled and bring them back to life again, how pleased they would be to work in one of our modern kitchens where gas is used. It would be like a dream to them until they could be convinced of its reality.

One lady says, "I would not sell my gas stove if I could not get another." An engineer on the Short Line says, "I cook my breakfast since I put in the gas, but it is too quick for me—it gets things ready before I can get dressed."

Gas is the thing all right, try it.
